Dear Madam, dear Sir,

Here they are—our new releases as well as our journals. Of course, there is more to come, and there have been more releases if you read German, too.

We proudly present our new partner in North America: Columbia University Press. We are overjoyed to have such a renowned, high-profile and reliable partner at our side. Our books moved this summer, and things are starting to roll.

If you are an author with Barbara Budrich Publishers or Budrich UniPress, you are entitled to a 30% discount off the recommended retail price. Please send your order directly to Karen. She will make sure the delivery is made swiftly, wherever you may be located on the planet. Alternatively, register as our author at our shop (www.barbara-budrich.net) await confirmation and you can even buy our ebooks as well as all printed matter with your author's discount.

As a lecturer you may ask for free reading copies in case you would like to consider a course adoption. Get in touch with Nele; she will guide you through the process.

If you would like to review any of our publications for your pertinent journal or any other academic media, let Corinna know. She will provide you with a free review copy.

You want to publish with us? We are delighted! And Miriam is, in particular! Just send your book proposal to her.

Interested in sample copies, subscriptions, online access to our journals? Let Josef know, he can help you there, and can also put you on to the editors in case you would like to submit your text for publication with any of our journals.

Best wishes,
Yours Barbara (Budrich)

Gendering European Integration Theory

Engaging New Dialogues

2016. 304 pp. Hc. 54,90 € (D), 56,50 € (A), US$79.95, GBP 47.95

ISBN 978-3-8474-0640-2 – eISBN 978-3-8474-0256-5, 43,99 €

The authors engage a dialogue between European integration theories and gender studies. The contributions illustrate where and how gender scholarship has made creative use of integration theories and thus contributes to a vivid theoretical debate. The chapters are designed to make gender scholarship more visible to integration theory and, in this way stimulates the broader theoretical debates. Investigating the whole range of integration theory with a gender lens, the authors illustrate if and how gender scholarship has made or can make creative use of integration theories.

EMANUELA CHIAPPARINI (ED.)

The Service User as a Partner in Social Work Projects and Education

Concepts and Evaluations of Courses with a Gap-Mending Approach in Europe

2016. 144 pp. Pb. 22,00 € (D), 22,70 € (A), US$33.00, GBP 19.95

ISBN 978-3-8474-0507-8 – eISBN 978-3-8474-0929-8

To become a competent social worker it is essential to know the perspective of the service users. Therefore, service users are more and more included in field research projects and the instruction of social workers to-be. However, they are usually reduced to the role of informants and not actively taking part as co-partners. For the first time, this anthology gives an overview of courses in which service users and students share their experiences and work together on the same level using gapmending methods. The applications and evaluations of these courses in different European countries are discussed in this volume.

Transferring Professional Knowledge and Skills

The Case of Central and Eastern European Migrant Physicians in German Hospitals

2016. 239 pp. Pb. 32,00 € (D), 32,90 € (A)

ISBN 978-3-86388-733-9

eISBN: 978-3-86388-297-6

Due to the current shortage of medical doctors in Germany, hospital administrations increasingly recruit physicians from abroad to meet their demand. Relaxed migration policies and access regulations to the medical profession enable the formal recognition of these physicians' qualifications.

However, the question remains whether these measures suffice to ensure a smooth transfer of professional knowledge and skills. Research on the migration of highly skilled migrants has thus far predominantly focused on macro-structural aspects, whereas their actual integration at the workplace remains largely unexplored.

HELENA RYTÖVUORI-APUNEN (ED.)

The Regional Security Puzzle Around Afghanistan

Bordering Practices in Central Asia and Beyond

2016. 340 pp. Hc. 59,90 € (D), 61,60 € (A), GBP 49.95, US$89.95

ISBN 978-3-8474-0789-8

eISBN 978-3-8474-0912-0

Western military presence wanes in Afghanistan and a transformed security environment challenges borders and stability in Central Asia. This book examines how the tensions relating to the reorganization of external military presence interact with regional states' ambitions and challenge the borders already contested by numerous dividing lines. It studies a complex political landscape across which radical Islam connected with international terrorism is feared to spread as the international mission initiated in the wake of the 9/11 attacks winds down.

European Competence Standards for the Academic Training of Career Practitioners

NICE Handbook Volume II

2016. 136 pp. Paperback. 4c. 24,90 € (D), 25,60 € (A),

US$36.95, GBP 21.95

ISBN 978-3-8474-0504-7

eISBN 978-3-8474-0925-0

This handbook introduces common European competence standards for the academic training of career practitioners in Europe, together with some proposals and examples, of how to implement and establish such competence standards in practice. More than 200 experts from all across Europe have contributed to the development of these shared standards of the Network for Innovation in Career Guidance and Counselling in Europe (NICE). The standards are already being used in many countries for the development of degree programmes.

The European Review of International Studies (ERIS) seeks to be a journal to which those who wish to know what is happening in 'European' International Relations can turn. It aims to achieve this goal by an extensive review section of monographs published in European languages and review articles of the literature on substantive themes or significant developments in different European academic communities. Its other principal goal is to publish original articles and from time to time translations of existing major articles not readily available in English.

ERIS aims:

- to reflect the European specificities and approaches.
- to be an outlet in English in particular for non-English language authors but including English language authors.
- to make the Anglophone world aware of research in other languages.
- to make non-English language authors aware of research in other non-English academic cultures and languages.
- to encourage transdisciplinarity across the social sciences and humanities among those concerned with international studies broadly defined.
- to be eclectic in terms of concept, method and approach with rigorous international academic standards.

The International Journal for Research on Extended Education (IJREE) aims at creating international visibility and a stronger scientific profile for the research field of extended education. The Journal is published by a group of internationally renowned educational researchers and is funded by the German Research Foundation \(DFG\).

From early childhood to late adolescence, young people are enrolled in various public or private forms of educational arrangements. Some of them, particularly pre-school-aged children, attend kindergarten or participate in early learning courses. School-aged children often participate in school- or community-based programmes, forms of private tutoring or after-school activities such as art courses or academic clubs, or they attend all-day schools.

In as far as these activities and programmes focus on the social, emotional and academic development of children and young people and are pedagogically structured to make it easier for the participants to learn specific contents they can be summarized by the term extended education.

INSEP is a trans-disciplinary journal for the publication of critical research work on any aspect of sexual ethics and politics as it pertains to sexual identities, practices, behaviours, relations, orientations, desires and pleasures, geographies, histories, national and transnational politics and policy, theories and ideas. It provides a space where academics and practitioner/activists can debate key and contemporary issues, debates and disagreements on all aspects of sexual ethics and politics.

The journal's mission is that of the network that underpins it, the International network for Sexual Ethics and Politics. The journal seeks to promote:

- Critical understandings of the ethical problems and possibilities for diverse sexualities;
- Critical understandings of the discourses, vocabularies and bodies of knowledge by which sexuality is conceived, understood and articulated in contemporary societies, and their historical lineages;
- Critical awareness and evaluations of the beneficence or malfeasance of particular articulations of sexuality, strengths or deficiencies of different sexual cultures and discourses, their historical antecedents and their contemporary patterns of prejudice, pathology and discrimination or practice and advocacy, as well as emergent sexual politics aiming at emancipation and liberation;
- Critical understandings of the role of law, politics and culture in the prohibition, permission or regulation of sexualities, both in its oppressive deployment and possibly liberating possibilities in contemporary societies;
- And, finally, critical and constructive engagements with sexual ethics itself, thinking through its forms, role and meanings, and its history, present and future.

Politics, Culture and Socialization (PCS) publishes new and significant work in all areas of political socialization in order to achieve a better scientific understanding of the origins of political behaviors and orientations of individuals and groups. Political socialization theory and research focus on processes by and structures through which individuals become or do not become politically active and acquire or do not acquire general political knowledge, and particular political beliefs, opinions, attitudes, emotions, values and behavioral intentions. The focus of attention is on political socialization processes (political education, information, persuasion, marketing, propaganda) and political socialization structures (family, school, mass media, peer groups, social networks, and politics).

PCS publishes new and significant contributions that report on current scientific research, discuss theory and methodology, or review relevant literature. It welcomes the following types of contributions on topics which fall within its aim and scope: (1) empirical research articles, (2) theoretical articles which analyze or comment on established theory or present theoretical innovations, (3) methodological articles, (4) book reviews.

Columbia University Press: New partner for Budrich in the U.S.

This summer, our books moved house: from ISBS in Portland, Oregon, to Columbia University Press in New York. Only about 12 months after launching Barbara Budrich Publishers, we signed an agreement with International Standard Book Services, who have been our North American distributor ever since. Supported by our small office that is now located in Toronto, we were thus present in the U.S. and Canada. They have done tremendous work, and we are grateful for the professional support and representation!

After all these years, it was a tough decision to move—and yet, we feel, it has been a necessary decision, too. A renowned academic publishing house like Columbia University Press is much closer to our business than a professional distributor without its own list of books and journals. Thus, our titles will be present at most important academic conferences and shows, i.e., APSA book exhibition, ISA and many more.

We thank the marvellous team at ISBS for all the support, and are now looking forward to what we can achieve with our new partners in New York.

budrich journals are now using CROSSREF

www.crossref.org

Crossref is a non-profit network founded in 2000 with a mandate to make reference linking throughout online scholarly literature efficient and reliable. Crossref is the biggest Digital Object Identifier (DOI) registration agency of the International DOI Foundation, where over 90% of all assigned DOIs are registered, and is committed to long term sustainability. In 2016, this citation linking network covers over 75 million journal articles and other content items from more than 5,000 scholarly and professional publishers around the globe.

Crossref holds no full text content, but rather effects linkages through DOIs. DOIs are unique alphanumeric strings assigned to a digital object – in this case, an electronic article. In the Crossref system, each DOI is associated with a set of basic metadata and a URL pointer to the full text, so that it uniquely identifies the content item and provides a persistent link to its location on the internet. DOIs consist of DOI-prefixes assigned by Crossref (Barbara Budrich Publishers: 10.3224) and DOI-suffixes generated by the publisher itself.

Outbound Reference Links are links to any of an article's citations that point to content already registered in the Crossref system. A researcher clicking on a Crossref link will be automatically connected to a page on the publisher's website showing a full bibliographical citation of the article, and, in most cases, the abstracts as well.

- You cite article A. Article A is registered at Crossref with a DOI. You paste the DOI of article A in your → reference list. The URL of the DOI links to the landing page of article A on the publisher's website.
- Your article is cited by article B. The author of article B pastes the DOI of your article in his/her
- reference list. The URL of the DOI links to the landing page of your article at www.budrich-journals.com.

Initially, Budrich's DOIs stemmed from the German DOI agency. However, since global linkage is much easier through Crossref, Budrich decided to switch agencies for the benefit of the journals, the authors, the scientific community at large and, thus, ultimately the publishing house as well.

IPSA 2016 World Congress in Poznan

The rushed relocation of the 2016 IPSA World Congress from Istanbul, Turkey, to Poznan, Poland, was no small challenge to the Canadian IPSA team and the local organizers in Turkey and Poland—and, after all, it became a masterpiece in organization. Some 3,000 international scholars needed to be informed, travel plans rescheduled, an entire program reorganized and transferred to a new location. It worked out beautifully. And it turned out the right way to stage this year's IPSA World Congress, the current situation in Turkey being inscrutable and not too safe.

Dr. Marcelli Burdelski, Prof. Tadeusz Walas, Barbara Budrich, and Prof. Roman Bäcker at the IPSA World Congress in Poznan, Poland.

For Budrich, it was a brilliant meeting place with many authors, old and new, from all over the world. Many new projects were discussed, and it was great to meet with old friends again.

In the end, the IPSA Congress provided the perfect backdrop for a new agreement between the Polish Political Science Association – Polskie Towarzystwo Nauk Politycznych (PTNP) and Budrich. As of August 2016, all members of the PTNP have online access to pertinent Budrich journals—German and English—the association covering the cost. Prof. Roman Bäcker, PTNP president, of Torun University and Prof. Tadeusz Walas, vice president, of Poznan University were accompanied by Dr. Marcelli Burdelski, treasurer, of Gdansk University to sign the agreement at the Poznań Congress Center (PCC), where the conference was held. Budrich commented: "I think an agreement like this is perfect to facilitate international scholarly exchange—and we want to do as much as a publisher can to enhance this."
